

Implementing TLCSM and PBL

26 October 2005

Today's Distinguished Panel

- Mr. Wimpy Pybus, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Army for Integrated Logistics Support, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army, Acquisition , Logistics, and Technology
- Mr. Nicholas Kunesh – Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Logistics
- Mr. Allen Beckett, Deputy Director of Maintenance, Deputy Chief of Staff for Installations and Logistics, Headquarters, US Air Force
- Ms. Kathy Cutler, Executive Director, Acquisition, Technical and Supply Directorate, (J-33), Defense Logistics Agency

Key Issues for Panel Discussion

- PBL is the Department's preferred product support policy. To what extent has it been incorporated within the Services' acquisition structure?
- A cornerstone of PBL is partnerships. What are some examples of successful PBL public/private partnership programs?
- What current PBLs are providing support to the warfighter today in the Global War on Terror? How are they working?
- What are the effects of TLCSM/PBL policy on the Logistics workforce? How are the Services/DLA addressing changing education and training needs?
- How are the Department, the Services, and DLA making progress in overcoming financial obstacles to implementing PBL?
